

FIGHT ON TRUST THE NEXT MOVE

President Feels Keenly Rebuff of Coal Operators.
CONGRESS MAY TAKE ACTION IF PENNSYLVANIA LAWS PROVIDE NO REMEDY.

Mine Owners Are Defiant and Refuse to Yield a Single Point in Controversy or Accept Roosevelt as Arbitrator.

COAL LORDS LOSE $2,000,000 IN A MONTH.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—The public will be called upon, in the price of coal in the future, to make good the enormous losses of the coal barons by the strike.
Six of the hard coal carrying and mining companies have now reported gross and net earnings for August, showing aggregate losses of more than $2,000,000.
The report of earnings of the Lehigh Valley Railroad Co. for August shows a decrease of $326,000 in the railway's and of $1,000,431 in the coal company's gross earnings. The railway lost $750,000 in net and the coal company in earnings $148,000 less than its expenses showed an increase of $50,767 in deficit for the month. Together the two companies' earnings were $359,871 less than their expenses.
Over and above the month's proportion of fixed charges and taxes all the leading companies earned in August, 1901, a surplus of $484,000, this year they failed to reach $10,000 to meet these charges of $587,000, net earnings of all three concerns being but $870,192.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—Disconcerted and dismayed, but not disheartened, is President Roosevelt today.

The unyielding attitude of the coal operators was a terrific disappointment. He had hoped confidently for better things. Henceforth he will aggressively fight the coal trust, and to that end, he has turned to Gov. Stone and Senator Quay of Pennsylvania for aid.

He will have a conference with them and a special session of the Pennsylvania legislature may be the outcome.

Attorney General Knox, one of the most competent counsel on attorneys in Pennsylvania, has advised him that a remedy for the strike lies in the power of that state.

There are statutes in Pennsylvania, not only prohibit the engaging in coal mining of coal-carrying railroads, but specify particularly that the directors of a coal-carrying railroad shall not be interested in a coal mining company.

This state law is violated by practically every coal-carrying road in the state. It is upon the enforcement of these statutes that the President hopes for success.

EXTRA SESSION ADVOCATED.

Some of the cabinet ministers are of the opinion that a remedy lies in a compulsory arbitration law, or a new anti-trust law that will reach the coal trust.

Secretary Moody said today that the only remedy seemed to be with a latent and unexercised power resting in Congress. This is thought to indicate an extra session of Congress if nothing else can be done.

President Roosevelt is indignant and angry at the attitude of the operators. He considers their position untenable and unwarranted.

The anger of Mr. Roosevelt was aroused mainly by the assertion of the operators that they will not recognize one man acting for the miners.

He feels that there is no material difference between the miners being represented by Mr. Mitchell and the railroad stockholders being represented by their presidents. He regards the two conditions as being precisely similar.

All the power and prestige of the administration have been directed to securing a settlement of the strike by other means than arbitration.

The President, by his own utterance, has characterized the conditions as intolerable, and he feels that the public looks to him to extricate it from the conditions resulting from the strike.

President Roosevelt expressed himself today as being much dissatisfied with the result of the conference. He said he did not believe the mine operators would come to the White House exhibiting the spirit they displayed.

He feels that once having tried to end the strike, he will lose prestige unless he accomplishes his end. To effect this end he is willing to make any sacrifice if success will only culminate his efforts.

He knows the hopes of the public, and is vainly endeavoring to bring about a successful conclusion of the negotiations already begun. Even last night, with disappointment staring him in the face, the President refused to adjourn.

Secretary Cortelyou, when asked point blank whether or not the President would refrain from any further action, said: "I don't think I would say that exactly."

President Roosevelt's full approval of the President, Mr. McKinley, practically pleaded with the operators yesterday to accept the conditions. He was met with point-blank refusals from each and every operator, including the independent operator, John Markle. President Roosevelt did not conceal his bitter disappointment. Long after the conference he argued impatiently to his advisers against the stand taken by the operators.

In addition to his disappointment at the result of this, the first attempt he had made to settle the strike, the President was greatly troubled with his injured leg. Mr. J. W. Jones was present during the greater part of the conference and had a careful watch of his patient.

The outcome attending the conference serially did not do the President's physical condition any good. He appeared to be in considerable pain when the conference adjourned, and when left alone with his advisers he said that he felt that he was in pain in order that the President might receive him.

Up to last of the conference President was greatly wrought up, and he had given out a great deal of energy. When the conference adjourned, he was a wreck. Mr. Roosevelt was in bed with a fever.

HARTMANN NOW IN JAIL HERE

Reached St. Louis in Custody of Officer Today.
ARRESTED AT SO. MALESTER

ONE OF EIGHTEEN INDICTED ON MURRELL'S RETURN.

He Is Charged With Bribery and Thus Far Has Not Been Successful in Obtaining Bond.

Emil Hartmann, the fugitive hoodler who was apprehended at South Mailester, Ill., early in the week, reached St. Louis at 10:17 o'clock Saturday morning and is now an inmate of the city jail.
He is held under bonds of $45,000, in two charges of bribery and one charge of perjury, in connection with the Suburban bribery case.

Hartmann is a former member of the House of Delegates, and he is one of the 18 men indicted as the result of the return of John K. Murrell from his Mexican hiding place, where he was located by the Post-Dispatch and induced to surrender himself.

INDICTED SEPT. 8.
Murrell's return was made public on Sept. 8, and the bench warrants for the 18 indicted men were issued on the same day.

Before the deputy sheriffs or the police could locate Hartmann and arrest him he fled to the south. The issuance of the warrants and left for parts unknown. Julius Lehmann, John A. ("Kid") Sheridan, who was arrested this morning, Chas. F. Kelly, Louis Decker and Adolph Macdonald also succeeded in evading the officers.

As told in the Post-Dispatch, he was arrested by a deputy United States marshal at South Mailester, whether he sought refuge in the home of his sister, Deputy Sheriff Edward Hartman, who is not related to the fugitive, who returned without the formality of requisition papers.

Sheriff Dickmann was at Union Station to meet them, and the trio rode to the Four Courts. Hartmann was escorted to the sheriff's office.

He asked permission to write a note to his wife, who has remained in their flat on St. George street, east of Broadway, since her husband's departure. His request was granted.

Before he could send the letter John T. Nichols, a political friend of Hartmann's, reached the sheriff's office.

Hartmann was approached by a Post-Dispatch reporter.

"Are you prepared to furnish a bond?" "I must refer you to my attorneys," he replied.

Hartmann remained in the sheriff's office until nearly 11:30 o'clock, when he was transferred to jail.

SMOKE CONSUMING DEVICE
Poor Machinist of Philadelphia in Fair Way to Become a Rich Man.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 4.—William S. Hughes, a machinist of this city, has perfected a smoke consuming device. It is the one that was personally tested by Cornelius Vanderbilt on the Manhattan Elevated a few nights ago. From a poor machinist Hughes will possibly become a rich man. He is past middle age and has worked as a machinist since boyhood. His spare moments he has devoted to perfecting his smoke consuming device.

"It has been a long wait for success," he says. "I have had no money to put the machine on the market. If there are sales of the device, I, of course, will receive a royalty on each device sold."

Hughes says that the device saves fuel and makes a perfect boiler in three hours. The double arch can be put into locomotive firebox and boiler in three hours.

BECAME A TRAMP FOR STUDY
Princeton Professor Applies for Medical Assistance During Unique Sociological Journey in Colorado.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
PUEBLO, Colo., Oct. 4.—Dressed as a tramp and worn and haggard, with a walk of 120 miles, through storm and cold, a man whose face belied his class stumbled into the dispensary of the Colorado Fuel & Iron Co. before daylight this morning and begged for medicine to relieve cramps.

At first he refused to talk, but after a hot potion had revived him, he said that he had walked from Aguilar, in Huertano County, during the night.

Though he persisted in denying that he was anything more than a common tramp, the experienced surgeon refused to believe it. As they were talking, a letter, worn and crumpled, slipped from the pocket of a ragged overcoat which he had thrown over a chair.

The letter was addressed to Prof. W. W. Wyckoff, Princeton, N. J.

Seeing that he was fairly caught, he admitted his identity. He said he had been tramped the state for a week. He had been a hobo, slept in box cars and picked his way about the country. He said he was studying tramp life.

In a few hours he was able to resume his sociological journey.

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 4.—The report that Prof. W. W. Wyckoff of Princeton has applied for assistance is discredited by the university authorities. Prof. Wyckoff has been in Colorado this summer, but he has no intention of returning to Princeton within the next few days preparatory to sailing for England, where he will be lecturing this winter.

MISS RUTH SPENCER ILL.
Miss Ruth Spencer, who is among the three or four young ladies prominently mentioned as the choice for queen of the Valley Prophet's ball, is ill at her home, 5 Washington terrace, from typhoid fever.

Miss Spencer was taken ill last Sunday night. Her mother, Mrs. C. H. Spencer, had just returned from Boston, Mass., with her sister, Miss Lulla, who is also ill.

When Miss Spencer was taken ill, she was recalled by wire. Her condition has improved the last day.

There is a great deal of interest in the case of Miss Spencer, who is a daughter of a prominent family.

"KID" SHERIDAN FUGITIVE FROM JUSTICE ARRESTED TODAY

Policeman Coulter Captured Him in West End Saloon.

MADE NO RESISTANCE

HE IS CHARGED WITH BRIBERY AND PERJURY.

He was Captured Shortly After 11:30 O'Clock and Was Taken to the Four Courts at Once—Obtained No Bond.

John A. ("Kid") Sheridan, one of the five fugitive members of the House of Delegates, who passed the lightning bill, was arrested at Walton and Delmar avenues this morning about 11:30 o'clock.

OFFICER FOLLOWED HIM.
Policeman William Coulter of the Tenth district, who made the arrest, saw Sheridan coming out of the saloon of Louis Zelazo at Delmar and Euclid avenues. He was arrested at Walton and Delmar avenues this morning about 11:30 o'clock.

Sheridan looked around, but said nothing. The officer followed him to Delmar and Walton avenues, where he placed him under arrest. Again the prisoner denied that he was Sheridan and the policeman told him that he would take him to the police station anyway.

Thereupon Sheridan laughed and said: "Oh, well, that's all right, old man; you've got me and there is no use arguing the matter further."

Sheridan was first taken to the Deer street station and from there to the Four Courts.

On the way he talked to the policeman about the weather, the news and everything almost but the boodle inquiry and the charge of which he is accused.

"He didn't offer any resistance," said Coulter, "and I found him a very gentle companion."

Policeman Coulter is a slightly built man, apparently about 30 years old. His physical proportions are in striking contrast to those of the ex-delegate, who is very large and powerful, weighing probably 200 pounds.

Sheridan arrived at the Four Courts at 12:30 o'clock and was locked up in the holdover.

GREETED CHIEF KIELY.
Before he went to the holdover he was escorted to the office of Chief of Detectives Kiely, where he greeted that official and nervously chewed at a cigar.

As he shook hands with the chief standing about Chief Kiely asked where he had been during the last few weeks.

Sheridan backed up against a window, his lips twitched nervously and he replied in faltering tones.

"Where have I been? Why, I was in a hospital for ten days."

The suggestion of a smile accompanied this remark, but the smile soon faded and Sheridan's face assumed an expression of painful gravity.

"What hospital were you at?" persisted Chief Kiely.

"Oh, it was a private hospital," answered Sheridan, "and I don't care to say where it was."

"Where you in the city all the time?" "Well, most of the time; I was out in St. Louis County a few days."

"What kept you away?" "I was sick and couldn't come back immediately."

Later Sheridan was interviewed by a Post-Dispatch reporter.

READY TO SURRENDER.
He stated that when arrested he was on his way to the Four Courts to give himself up. "How about the charge of bribery against you?" he was asked.

"Oh, I don't care to say anything about that now."

Then he smiled again, and Chief Kiely ordered that he be taken to the holdover.

INDICTED TWICE.
Sheridan lives at 917 Morgan street. He was indicted Sept. 8 on two charges of bribery and one of perjury, in connection with the lighting bill, after the return and confession of J. K. Murrell.

Sheridan represented the Fourth ward in the last House after the House combine, having first elected Murrell as speaker, had ousted William Vogel from the House and seated him.

Sheridan's vote clinched the grip of the new combine, and he continued to occupy a seat from the ward, but drew no salary. Vogel succeeded in keeping an injunction or some other legal obstacle between him and the city treasury. Vogel tried to regain his seat through legal processes, and the case went to the State Supreme Court, which handed down the dictum that the House is the sole judge of the qualifications of its members.

Sheridan, who is a Democrat, sought a re-nomination, but was defeated by Thomas E. Kinney, the present delegate. The contest at the primaries between "Kid" Sheridan and "Snake" Kinney was a notable episode in "Indian" warfare. All sorts of irregularities were committed on both sides, and Sheridan talked of contesting the result, but did not do so.

MRS. KESLA TOLD SHE WAS A WIFE CANNON TO SPEAK IN ST. LOUIS TONIGHT

Supposed Mother Died Leaving Her in Ignorance.

LEARNED NEWS IN COURT
HENRY BERNHARDT OF NEW YORK FILED AFFIDAVIT.

Said His Wife, Who Died in St. Louis Leaving an Estate, Never Adopted Mrs. Kesla, Picked Up a Waif.

Mrs. George Kesla, 20 years of age, while in the probate court clerk's office Saturday morning, learned that an affidavit had just been filed by Henry Bernhardt of 104 East Thirtieth street, New York City, whom it appears, she had supposed to be her father, to the effect that her maiden name was not legally Bernhardt, but that he and his deceased wife had found her a waif and reared her, but never adopted her.

The affidavit was made in support of a motion made by Bernhardt's attorney for the distribution of the estate of his deceased wife. The estate is in New York, but the affidavit of Bernhardt states that he and his wife had found her a waif and reared her, but never adopted her.

They were married in New York in 1879, and Mrs. Bernhardt died several years later. Mrs. Bernhardt coming to St. Louis with the little girl who is now Mrs. Kesla.

It appears that Mrs. Bernhardt always allowed Mrs. Kesla to think they were mother and daughter, and died leaving her under that impression.

Mrs. Kesla objected to the distribution as proposed, and the fact directed the attorneys for both sides to file briefs.

PLEA FOR A RECEIVER.
Latest Move in New Orleans Street Railway Strike.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 4.—The stockholders are bondholders of the New Orleans Railway Co., today went into the civil district court and asked for the appointment of a receiver for the company, alleging mismanagement on the part of the managers and directors and their failure to operate the cars of the company with consequent impairment of the interests of the stockholders.

Not a passenger car has been moved on the company's tracks since last Sunday, when a strike of the employees.

SNYDER VERDICT IS EXPECTED TONIGHT

State's Attorneys Hold That the Verdict Legally Be Returned on Sunday, Pending the Evidence and Arguments Are In Before Midnight.

SNYDER'S RESIDENCE IS THE POINT AT ISSUE.

Court convened in the trial of the Snyder case at 2:15 this afternoon, the defense having requested an hour and a half adjournment period, in order to decide on the witnesses to be examined during the afternoon, and also to confer as to suggestions for the court's instructions to the jury.

Mr. Folk, just before adjournment, spoke of the necessity of giving the case to the jury tonight.

Judge Ryan replied that he was satisfied the defense was doing everything in its power to expedite the trial.

He said he had talked the matter over fully with Mr. Lehmann, and that gentleman believed the examination of witnesses would be concluded this afternoon.

It is the general impression in the courtroom that the verdict will be rendered tonight.

The attorneys for the state, after yesterday's discussion of the point, looked up the law to ascertain if it were legal to let the trial proceed into the next term of court, which begins Monday morning.

Authorities for such a course were found to be lacking, but Judge Harvey discovered that there is good precedent for the concluding of a case on Sunday.

Verdicts in murder cases, he found, had been rendered on Sunday. According to interpretations of the law by able jurists, this term of court ends when the next term begins, therefore, Sunday belongs to this term.

The point maintained by Judge Harvey, which he presented to the court, is that the evidence must be in by Saturday midnight, but the verdict may be rendered tomorrow.

On the opening of court this morning Circuit Attorney Folk announced that the case would be finished before midnight, by agreement with the attorneys for the defense, and that the question of a possible continuance until the next term of court would not be considered further.

The argument continued by the defense from last night related entirely to the question of Snyder's residence. The story of the defense, as yesterday, was to demonstrate to the jury that Snyder had been a resident of Missouri since he was regarded by his acquaintances in Kansas City as a continuous resident of that city.

The effect of positive proof that Snyder has been a resident of Missouri would be to give him the benefit of the three years' statute of limitations and to make ineffective the testimony of Uthoff, Kobusch and others, themselves protected by the same statute, on the charges of bribery.

Judge Ryan has intended that if the jury found a verdict not consistent, in his opinion, with the statute of limitations and the evidence in relation to the matter of residence, he might set aside the verdict on the charges of bribery.

Judge Ryan has intended that if the jury found a verdict not consistent, in his opinion, with the statute of limitations and the evidence in relation to the matter of residence, he might set aside the verdict on the charges of bribery.

The case would have the same end if Judge Ryan, convinced that Snyder is exempt from punishment under the statute of limitations, should order the jury to find a verdict of acquittal.

Snyder appeared at the trial this morning attired in a spring suit of light brown, which was a marked contrast to the dark clothing which he has worn since the trial commenced. A pink-striped shirt added to the cheerfulness of the defendant's raiment.

When William M. Tamblin, well-dressed, but pale from his confinement in jail, was brought into the courtroom to testify as to his ability to furnish a lower bond, Snyder showed a lively interest, and he followed the testimony of the former speaker of the House with the same close attention which he had given to the witnesses in his own case.

Gus Ruedi, clerk in the office of the recorder of deeds, introduced the records of the incorporation of the Central Traction Co. The document was read by Attorney Jourdan.

The names of incorporators formed the only portion of the record which Mr. Jourdan relied on as evidence, but he read entire document, signed by Julius S. Bach, New York; R. M. Snyder, Kansas City; H. S. Potter, Boston, and John M. Blessing, Finis E. Marshall and L. B. Tebbets of St. Louis.

The bearing of the document on the case was to show that Snyder's residence was named as Kansas City in the incorporation papers of the company, filed early in 1895.

The reading of depositions from citizens of Kansas City was again taken up by Attorney Jourdan for the defense and Attorney Maroney for the state.

The deposition of J. C. Hill, a street car advertising agent, and of Dr. H. C. Crowell, who has prescribed for Snyder, contained little differing from the recitals at last night's session.

The smallest gathering of spectators since the commencement of the trial listened warily to the monotonous reading of questions and answers, and Snyder, to whom the written testimony was an old story, was inattentive. Mr. Folk listened in silence and without his usual alertness.

In the record of Dr. Crowell's cross-examination, the witness was asked if he knew that Snyder resided at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel in New York. His reply was, "I suppose he picked his teeth there."

STATE'S COMPLAINT CASE AGAINST Snyder

Direct evidence on behalf of Snyder, as to his residence, was given by the testimony of three witnesses.

Mr. Folk, just before adjournment, spoke of the necessity of giving the case to the jury tonight.

Judge Ryan replied that he was satisfied the defense was doing everything in its power to expedite the trial.

He said he had talked the matter over fully with Mr. Lehmann, and that gentleman believed the examination of witnesses would be concluded this afternoon.

LEMP STAKES DREW CROWDS

Track Was Slushy But Book-maker Did a Very Large Business.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
FAIR GROUNDS, Oct. 4.—The track was not as heavy as anticipated, but it was soft and slushy to a degree. Its surface was covered with water and the sport should really be classed as aquatic.

The day was cool and cloudy, but despite the unfavorable conditions there was quite a large attendance.

The Lemp stakes was the race magnet that attracted the crowd, as a choice field of 2-year-olds competed for the prize, which was won by Lemp.

Twenty bookmakers had all they could do to keep up with volume of business which they received.

FIRST RACE, seven furlongs—Joe Lesser (Roubert), 26 to 1; first; Lemp (J. Jackson), 2 to 1; second; Russell (W. Walden), 2 to 1; third; Time, 1:33 1/4.

Second race, six furlongs—Lemp (J. Jackson), 2 to 1; first; Russell (W. Walden), 2 to 1; second; Time, 1:33 1/4.

Third race, five furlongs—Lemp (J. Jackson), 2 to 1; first; Russell (W. Walden), 2 to 1; second; Time, 1:33 1/4.

THESE STORKS BROUGHT WATCH

MISS CLIFFORD F. TEMPLETON, ACTRESS
BRIDE, HONORED BY MEMBERS OF HER COMPANY.

"The Storks" came to Mrs. Clifford F. Templeton Friday night after the performance at the Olympic and presented her with a gold watch.

Mrs. Templeton was Miss Elizabeth P. Cohen, and is a member of "The Storks" company. She slipped away briefly Wednesday evening and was married so quietly that her fellow-members of the troupe did not learn of the event until yesterday morning.

When they did learn of it there was a quiet conference—so quiet that Mrs. Templeton did not hear of it.

Manager Sellman requested the actors all to remain upon the stage after the curtain went down last night, as he wished to talk to them on a matter of business.

To the tune of "Baby Mine" the members of the company danced around Mrs. Templeton, who was blushing confusedly. Then Gilbert Gregory delivered a burlesque address, after which Chief Stork Richard Carle wittily presented the gift of The Storks, a pretty watch.

value of the annual product, however, does not compare so favorably. The number of farms increased to 1900, an increase of over 1,000,000 ten years.

These figures deny that the number of farms operated by owners has decreased. The argument of the financial and social classes of the American farmer, as is contended. While the percentage owned by their operators decreased during the decade from 71 per cent. to 61 per cent., the total number of such farms increased from 3,500,728 in 1890 to 4,100,000 in 1900.

As to the census, there are 10,400,000 in the United States making up their principal vocation, as to a total of 4,415,033 in manufacturing.

Statistics of agriculture there is no made between the wage earner. The relation of labor and the owner of the farm. In agriculture there is expended for labor $255,000,000. In manufacturing there is annually paid $40,808 for labor. The number of males in manufacturing is 2,166,731, a number of work animals than in any other country. The stock raising farm in the United States is in size and value of the average is $2065 or $1182 per acre. From the income is $255, or $1143 per acre. The average farm produces live stock and $135 worth of marine.
